

WITNESSES SPIRITED OFF

Booker T. Washington Assault Case Not Tried

PROSECUTION PROTESTED

Attorney for the Defendant, Ulrich, Declared That Some of His Witnesses Were Absent and Therefore He Asked for a Continuance.

New York, Oct. 18.—When the case of Henry A. Ulrich, accused of assault on Booker T. Washington, was called in part V of the court of special sessions yesterday morning, James L. Moore, the counsel for Ulrich, asked for an adjournment. He intimated that several of his witnesses had been spirited away.

"Within the past week three of my principal witnesses have disappeared," Mr. Moore told the justices, "and I ask that this case be adjourned for a week or ten days, so that I can look into the matter. They have been on hand all summer, and just now, when the case was set for trial, they have disappeared."

At this District Attorney James Smith broke out with a loud protest.

"That is no excuse for having this case adjourned, your honors," he said. "This case has been on the calendar many times, and Mr. Moore has had plenty of opportunity to get his people here. Dr. Washington has come to New York at great expense. Although he is not in the court room now, he is within two minutes' reach, and if the case goes on now, as I hope it will, he can be readily produced. It won't take two minutes."

Justices Keller, Mayo and Ryan conferred for a minute, and then announced that the case would go over.

"It will be put on the calendar on Nov. 6," said Justice Keller, "and we insist that all witnesses for both sides be here then."

"I can't see why the court should put an injunction on the prosecution in this case," broke out Assistant District Attorney Smith again, with evident heat. "I'm not sure that I can get my witnesses here then, and I have them all here and ready to testify now."

"The motion has been disposed of, Mr. Smith," said Justice Ryan. "If you don't find that you are able to get your witnesses here, you have your remedy under the law."

Ulrich was in court, but Dr. Washington was not. It is understood that one of the witnesses is to be Lieut. Quinn of the West Sixty-eighth street station house, before whom Washington made his complaint the night Ulrich was arrested.

Ulrich, who has a "dog hospital" lives at 11½ West Sixty-third street, and it is charged that on March 19 he chased Dr. Washington up Central Park West and beat him up.

WHOLE YALE CLASS ON PROBATION

Sheffield Freshmen Punished for Recent Disorders.

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 18.—It was given out Monday night that the faculty of the Sheffield Scientific school, who are considering the cases of the three Sheffield men who were arrested Friday night for setting fire to bridges, stealing signs and red lights and otherwise creating a disturbance, will put the entire freshman class of Sheffield on probation until after the Christmas holidays. Expulsion will follow any violation of the probation rules.

Not in half a dozen years has an entire class at Yale been thus chastised. Such a punishment of the entire class would be in line with the recommendation of Chief Cowles of the police department, who made the following statement last night:

"I do not intend to let a crowd of 100 or 150 students set fire to bridges, steal car signs, pull the car trolleys from wires and otherwise create a disturbance."

"I cannot see how students will deliberately pour oil on a bridge and set it afire. In so doing there is a possible chance that the fire will do more damage than the students figured, for the blaze might spread to buildings near by and not only endanger property, but do even more serious damage. I hope the Yale faculty in their investigation punishes every student in that crowd and I will certainly urge them to do so."

The men who can convince the faculty that they had no part in the riot or doings of Friday night will be crossed off the list of offenders and their freshman privileges restored to them.

RAILROADS FORBIDDEN

To Cancel Rate Contracts With Other Lines.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 18.—All railroads were forbidden by the interstate commerce commission yesterday to cancel rate contracts with other roads when such action will result in a raise of freight rates.

The decision followed investigation of the Northern Pacific's increase of east-bound lumber rates from Oregon and Washington points on the Tacoma Eastern railroad.

OPERATED UPON KAISER WILHELM

Memoirs of Dr. Bergmann Tells Related News of Tumor—Operation in 1894.

Berlin, Oct. 18.—The memoirs of the late Dr. Bergmann, which were published Monday contain the first intimation of the fact that the Kaiser underwent a serious operation in 1894 and that even the Kaiser knew nothing about it until after it was over.

One day while the Kaiser was on a yachting trip he pointed out to the doctor a swelling about the size of a walnut under the jaw near the ear. The emperor told the surgeon that he had noticed it growing for ten years.

Dr. Bergmann thought at first that the swelling was simply an affection of the skin, but subsequently found that it was a salivary cyst and needed cutting. He anesthetized the spot with cocaine and removed the tumor. The operation was successful. The operation was a very delicate one, as the wound was close to the mimetic nerve of the mouth and the slightest mistake would have caused the Kaiser's lips to remain awry during the rest of his life.

The Kaiser told Dr. Bergmann that the growth was very disagreeable because at parades and inspections all eyes were turned to that spot. The emperor's first question of Dr. Bergmann after the operation was: "What did the Arabs know about surgery?"

SEEK DYNAMITERS.

Poses Search Hills for Would-Be Taft Assassins.

Santa Barbara, Cal., Oct. 18.—The sheriffs of several counties, with scores of men in automobiles and on horseback, are combing the rough country north of here in a man hunt for the two dynamiters who were detected in the act of arranging fuses on thirty-nine sticks of dynamite, which were intended to blow to bits the Cairn viaduct a few minutes before President Taft's special train was due to pass over it.

Abe Jenkins, a railroad watchman, struggled with the men and exchanged shots with them but could not give the pursuers a description of the two men on account of the obscurity.

The theory most generally held here is that striking Southern Pacific shopen or their sympathizers desired to blow up the bridge in order to discredit the railroad, which has boasted in advertisements that its trains were running on time in spite of the strike.

The Cairn viaduct is twenty miles north of Santa Barbara, between the villages of Gaviota and El Capitán. It is a massive structure of steel, completed three years ago, and carries the railroad over a valley and a dried up stream.

MRS. VON CLAUSSEN INSANE

Was Prominent Through Controversies with Roosevelt and Sweden Minister.

New York, Oct. 18.—Mrs. Ida von Claussen, who first came into prominence through a controversy with the United States minister to Sweden and later with President Roosevelt, was committed to the Bloomingdale insane asylum yesterday. Physicians of Bellevue hospital, where she was sent a week ago, decided that she was suffering from "progressive paranoia."

The physician's report read in court said that Mrs. von Claussen had accused Mr. Roosevelt of preventing her from marrying the son of the king of Sweden. Her original quarrel with the Swedish minister arose from the latter's refusal to present her at court.

FAMILY MURDERED.

Man, Wife and Three Children Killed in Bed.

Ellsworth, Kan., Oct. 18.—William Showman and his wife and three children were murdered while they slept Monday night. The murderer used an axe and crushed the head of each. The bodies were found at 5 o'clock yesterday morning by Mrs. O. W. Snook, a neighbor. There is no clue to the murderer. The Showmans were persons in moderate circumstances and it is believed the motive could not have been robbery. It is known that the man or his wife had very enemies. The bodies of the five victims were found in one room. All were in bed.

ATHLETICS IN THE 11TH

Defeated New York Giants For the Second Time

COOMBS WAS THE PITCHER

He Outpitched the Great Mathewson Yesterday Afternoon and Baker Distinguished Himself With a Home Run.

New York, Oct. 18.—Philadelphia defeated the Giants by a score of 3 to 2 yesterday in an 11-inning contest, which probably was the most bitterly fought in any of the world series games in recent years.

Mathewson and "Iron Man" Coombs were bracketed in a tight pitching duel, and Mathewson finally broke under the strain. Coombs was always master of the Giants, who were only able to garner three hits, though they were favored in run-getting by the "breaks" of the game.

Baker, the Athletics' third baseman, was again the hero of Philadelphia's victory. He duplicated the feat of Monday and smashed out a homer in the ninth inning tying the score.

The Athletics clinched the victory in the eleventh, when Collins singled to left field and Baker got an infield hit on Herzog's poor throw to Merkle, who dropped the ball. Collins took third, Baker going to second and Collins scored when Fletcher fumbled Murphy's hit. Baker taking third. Baker scored on Davis' single to right.

After Herzog doubled to left in New York's half of the inning, Becker, batting for Mathewson, made a hit on which Herzog scored when Collins fumbled the ball.

The Game.

Lord opened at the bat for the Athletics and was an easy out, as were Oldring and Collins. For the Giants, Devore fanned; Doyle went out to Davis unassisted and Snodgrass hammered the air.

Baker came up in the second and knocked out a grounder which was easily gathered in, and he was out at first. Murphy sent a red hot liner to Herzog, which looked like a sure two-bagger, but the Giant shortstop captured it and the Athletics' big stickler was out. Baker flied out. For the Giants neither of the three men got further than first.

Lapp and Barry went out on a double play at the opening of the third and Coombs was put out on a fly. Meyers singled, went to third on Mathewson's single, crossing the plate when Devore got an infield hit.

Neither side got a man on in fourth and in the fifth Murphy was safe at first on Herzog's fumble. Davis' single sent him to second and he was sacrificed to third. When Lapp hit an infield tap, Murphy attempted to steal home and was caught at the plate. Coombs flied out. The Giants went down in one, two, three order.

In the sixth, Lord, Oldring and Collins were easy out in order, and Meyers and Devore were also knocked down consecutively.

Baker and Murphy hit long and easy flies in the seventh, which were gathered in, and Davis fanned, while only one Giant reached second base in that inning.

In the eighth Barry doubled and went to third on Lapp's scratch hit, but was thrown out at the plate trying to steal home. A few minutes later Lapp also tried to steal the plate and was caught. Oldring fanned, ending the inning, and the Giants went out in order.

Baker, the first man up, sent a corking hit into right field bleachers and circled the bases; Collins went out on a grounder and Murphy reached second on Herzog's fumble and went to third on Davis' out. Barry was an easy out. Mathewson came to the bat for the Giants, struck out, and Devore hit a pop fly which was promptly gathered in, Doyle fanned.

The Athletics went out in order in the tenth and for the Giants Snodgrass walked, going to second on Murphy's sacrifice, but was put out in attempting to steal third; Merkle also got a pass but was thrown out in an attempted steal.

Collins opened for the Athletics in the eleventh and went to second on Baker's hit; both were advanced a base on Herzog's poor throw and Collins crossed the plate when Fletcher fumbled Murphy's grounder. A minute later Baker also scored on Davis' single to right field. For the Giants, Herzog doubled, Fletcher flied out and Meyers went out on a grounder, Herzog scoring when Collins fumbled Becker's grounder. Becker was nailed trying to steal second. The score:

CUMMINS ON TRIAL.

Charged With Grand Larceny of $140,000 Belonging to Carnegie Trust Co.

New York, Oct. 18.—The tangled affairs of the defunct Carnegie Trust company were aired again yesterday, when the supreme court took up an indictment charging William Cummins, formerly chairman of the executive committee of that institution, with grand larceny. This is the second trial resulting from the investigation of the Carnegie Trust company's affairs. Joseph R. Reichmann, its ex-president, having been convicted last June of making a false report to the superintendent of banks.

The charges against Mr. Cummins are more serious. He was indicted on three counts for grand larceny, based on note transactions involving $35,000. The prosecution, however, will rest its case on only one charge, that on April 23, 1910, Cummins borrowed $140,000 from the 19th Ward bank, ostensibly for the Carnegie Trust company, and converted it to his own use.

PRICES ON TICKETS.

New Jersey Commissioners May Require Them.

Trenton, N. J., Oct. 18.—Several important questions with reference to railroad administration were considered yesterday at a conference between representatives of most of the railroad companies of the state and the state utility commission. The first question discussed was the proposition to print the rate of fare on all tickets. Commissioner Daniels said he was largely responsible for the proposition. No formal complaints have been filed with the commission, he said, but he had knowledge of cases of overcharging in fares. He thought it would be for the general good of the public to have the rate on the ticket.

The attitude of the companies was that there was not enough necessity to justify the great expense, which it was claimed would be $250,000, besides requiring that all tickets be destroyed and new ones printed every time the fare was changed. Commissioner Daniels said the practice was followed in Great Britain.

The conference also discussed a uniform method of redeeming lost tickets, the better protection of trackmen while working on the tracks, and the further safeguarding of grade crossings.

GLOVER WILL CASE DELAYED.

Justice Sheldon Called to Full Bench Conference and Puts Over Third Trial.

Boston, Oct. 18.—On account of a full bench conference, at which his presence was required, Justice Sheldon was unable to begin the third trial of the Glover will case at East Cambridge yesterday. The parties were present or represented by counsel in the Middlesex supreme court with jury yesterday forenoon, when Justice Sheldon came in and announced that the case would be postponed until Thursday. For the estate, E. R. Anderson appeared as counsel, and Mrs. Lillian M. Glover, the widow, who was left three-quarters of the property, and Samuel D. Emore, the executor, were in court. The contestants, four brothers of Clarence F. Glover, were not in court, but were represented by Jesse W. Gove.

Mrs. Glover, in a statement, said that her own money was rapidly disappearing and she has not yet received a cent from it. She said that she understood that there were surprises in store for her at this trial, but that she would not be surprised now at anything.

The will was filed in November, 1900, and left three-quarters of the estate to the widow and one-quarter to the testator's brother, Seymour Glover. After a long trial, Judge McIntire of the probate court allowed the will in April, 1910. The contestants appealed and the case was tried in the supreme court before Justice Hammond last May and the jury disagreed.

"RUZZIE" LETTERS

Miss Smith, the Breach of Promise Defendant, Appears Bored and Pleased at Intervals.

New York, Oct. 18.—A crowd whose faces bore anticipatory smiles trooped into part XII of the supreme court yesterday to gaze upon Russell Gardner Griswold, as he sat in the witness chair in an endeavor to prove to a jury that Miss Helen Smith, heiress and former wife of a former mayor of Stamford, Conn., had capped her protestations of love by proffers of marriage, and that $50,000 should be his heart balm for her breach of promise. Miss Smith wore a veil that could not hide features that were full of mirth—in strong contrast to those that faced her from the witness stand.

Of course Miss Smith doesn't fancy the notoriety. But her letters to "Ruzzielamb" Griswold—hundreds of them that have been and will be read in court—show that her sense of humor is large and her intelligence, stylistically, philosophically, and romantically, is rather above the average. Consequently she is able to derive some amusement from "Ruzzielamb's" confession that he had been ready to devote his life to her, and, in fact, had done so for nine years (9) in receiving and writing letters, accepting gifts and acknowledging them, and giving up his position in a bank in order to run errands for her and be generally handy around her house in Stamford, both before and after she obtained a divorce. For some reason "Ruzzielamb's" righteous wrath amused her hugely, and she laughed frequently.

Letters Offered for Sale.

Occasionally when an especially good specimen of her literary style was read aloud, her expression seemed to imply that she rather regretted such artistic efforts should have been wasted and all druggists. $1 for 21 days' medicine, and satisfaction guaranteed. Ely, will try to prove that the broken-hearted young man offered the letters to the public via a newspaper for a money consideration.

Griswold, looking resigned but determined, resumed his position on the stand when the court convened. It was with a martyred expression that he listened to Jacob Gordon, his attorney, read letters from Miss Smith, professing fondness or offering advice as to how he should breathe and walk, and signed sometimes "Brunnhilde," or "I-K," symbolic of the eye-kiss for which he alleges she had a predilection.

The thirtieth letter of the morning affected Miss Smith to such an extent that she placed an over veil of deep brown over her face. The letter referred to was written in August, 1908, and was addressed to "My Beloved Siegfried." In it she declares that to relieve "sickness and cobwebs" she danced a "solo" before a "phono," and "My! it was hot work!" It closed with "Always, unto ashes, thine Brunnhilde."
